

Prairie Bluebell Egger - Female

Our Prairie Bluebell Egger™ lays a novel blue egg but produces higher quality eggs than a pure Araucana. This breed was created by crossing Araucanas and White Leghorns, this creates a chicken that lays a large quantity of eggs that have blue shells. The Prairie Bluebell Egger™ is an active bird that is very good at foraging. They are lightweight and do not eat as much as larger breeds. Plumage color varies considerably among individuals, so you can count on having a great variety of beautiful color patterns.

Purpose: Egg Layer

Production: 240 Medium
Blue Eggs/Year

Temperament: Active,
Athletic, Alert

Mature Weight: 4-5 lbs.

Hardiness: Cold and Heat
Hardy

Broodiness: Rarely

Comb Type: Pea Comb

