

White Leghorn

This breed was developed in Italy, brought to the U.S. in 1835. This breed is very economical because it produces a high volume of eggs while consuming small portions of feed. When hens are full grown they weight 4lbs.

Breed Characteristics

Class: Mediterranean

Origin: Italy

Comb Type: Single

Egg Color: White

Egg Size: Large

Production: 5+ eggs per week

Broody: No

Hardiness: Heat tolerant

Disposition: Active and Skittish

Environment: Confinement or Free range